This virtual workshop will help us take our work to the next level. We'll work to become more aware of those cultural "man-rules" that tell us we're supposed to be self-sufficient islands, and that empathy and kindness are weak. We'll also explore the liberating power of vulnerability that frees us to be authentic and whole.

PARTICIPANTS WILL

This workshop will help men break free of the conventional, confined masculinity that limits emotional capabilities, stunts relationships, hinders workplace success and prevents men from contributing in positive ways to societal challenges. It also will help men become aware of and move toward an emerging, liberating masculinity that frees men and all those around them to live more compassionate, connected lives at home, at work and in society.

You'll hear about cutting-edge research on healthier ways to be a man, engage with peers in small-group discussions and take away new practices for advancing toward a more satisfying, more effective, more soulful masculinity.

A GUEST

Our special guest for this workshop is Ed Frauenheim. Ed has been writing about business workplace matters and culture for more than 25 years and has co-written four books. His latest is Reinventing Masculinity: The Liberating Power of Compassion and Connection, which will serve as the foundation for the workshop.
